HITLER HALTS!

Hitler weakened today, halted on the brink of a war of his own making, reopened the door to peaceful settlement of the German-Czech dispute.

He postponed German mobilization for 24 hours, invited Chamberlain, of Britain, to meet him tomorrow in Munich, together with Mussolini of Italy, Daladier of France.

This dramatic announcement, made by Chamberlain before Parliament, created scenes of joyous demonstration seldom witnessed in England.

Thus, into actual being comes a four-power conference of the nature suggested by President Roosevelt to solve the problem peacefully.

HITLER BIDS 'BIG 4' MEET TO AVERT WAR

By KINGSBURY SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 28—In a dramatic and totally unexpected move for peace in a mobilized world, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today invited Great Britain, France and Italy to participate in a four-power conference in Munich tomorrow morning.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain, Premier Edouard Daladier of France and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy instantly accepted the invitation.

Chamberlain announced the Fuehrer's welcome gesture of peace at the end of a long and doleful exposition of the European war crisis before the House of Commons.

He revealed at the same time that Hitler has promised to withhold mobilization of the German armies for 24 hours.

Chamberlain, 69, quiet and reserved almost to the point of stolidity, staged his dramatic announcement in a manner worthy of the stage.

He finished his speech, told how Hitler had expressed himself as willing to risk war for the Sudetenland, described in detail his heart-breaking, unsuccessful efforts at mediation, and added amidst a tense silence:

"I have something to tell the House now."

"Mr. Hitler has promised to withhold mobilization for 24 hours and has invited Mr. Daladier, Signor Mussolini and myself to meet him in Munich tomorrow morning."

"I shall go and see what I can do as a last effort."

WILD CONFUSION

There was a moment of stunned, incredulous silence, and the House then broke into a bedlam. Members jumped to their feet and leaped upon the red leather benches of the House, shouting and screaming like madmen. Papers were thrown into the air, clothes disheveled in the unprecedented joyous confusion.

Chamberlain's theatrical presentation of the most electrifying news Britain and the world have received in years was not entirely planned.

While he was in the midst of his speech, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon handed him a piece of paper on which news of Hitler's invitation and postponement of the mobilization decree had been scribbled in pencil.

This little note also carried the disclosure that Mussolini had sent his ambassador in Berlin to German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, asking him to obtain from Hitler a promise that mobilization would be postponed. To this the Fuehrer agreed.

CRISIS POSTPONED

As the cheering and waving on the floor and in the gallery of the House continued unabated, Chamberlain tried for several moments to make himself heard.

Then, when the House finally realized he had something more to say, they quieted down. Speaking in a low voice that he controlled with utmost difficulty, the premier said:

"No member will not feel his heart leap to know that the crisis once more is postponed."

"I need not say what my answer to the invitation will be. I hope the House will be pre-

Here's How Neville Got News

LONDON, Sept. 28 (INS)—When history books are written, here is how they should describe the events leading up to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's announcement of the four-power conference in the House of Commons today.

Hitler's message agreeing to the meeting was received at the foreign office during the afternoon. A courier rushed to the House and handed it to Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, sitting in the peers' gallery.

Halifax read it, a broad smile suddenly lighting up his face. He handed it to former Premier Lord Baldwin, sitting by his side.

Viscount Halifax then took the paper and walked down the stairs, stepped behind the speaker's chair and signaled to Lord Finglass, Chamberlain's parliamentary private secretary.

Lord Finglass came to the vice-count's side. Halifax pencilled a few notes on a piece of paper and gave it to Finglass. The latter then handed it to Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, sitting just next to Chamberlain. Sir John read it, smiled and then slipped the momentous document into Chamberlain's bag.

Nazis Call Passenger Ships Home

BERLIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Both the North German Lloyd and Hamburg American Steamship lines today announced that all sailings of their ships had been cancelled.

The liner Europa, which was due at Southampton today, was recalled and, according to North German Lloyd authorities, "is now enroute home."

The Berlin, which sailed September 24 for the United States, was also recalled.

The Hamburg-American liner Hansa, scheduled to sail at midnight tonight, pulled away from her pier at 9 a. m. and left New York harbor for Germany with none of the 550 passengers booked for the voyage.

The St. Louis, another ship of the same line, arrived in New York with 44 passengers and 565 tons of general cargo and was ordered to unload as quickly as possible and to leave at once without passengers.

Franco Forces Gain Along Ebro Front

HENDAYE, France, Sept. 28 (AP)—Spanish Insurgents pressed their offensive against government positions on the Ebro river front of eastern Spain with renewed vigor today after days of rain had halted operations.

Stocks Up On News of Peace Move

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—Wall Street today greeted news of the Munich conference of leading European government heads with a rousing upswing in the stock exchange, one of the sharpest of recent years.

Stocks had slumped $1 to $3 a share in the first few minutes of trading, in response to extreme nervousness of European markets, but buyers swarmed into the market at the end of the first half hour, as financial news tickers printed the announcement that Prime Minister Chamberlain, Premier Daladier, and Premier Mussolini would meet Reichsfuehrer Hitler in Munich tomorrow in a fresh effort to avert war.

Chamberlain, Hitler Secret Talks Bared

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told Parliament today that Adolf Hitler had informed him at Berchtesgaden that "rather than wait" to help the Sudeten Germans achieve self-determination "he would be prepared to risk a world war."

He added in revealing previously undisclosed details of his peace negotiations that he believed his Berchtesgaden talk with Hitler had prevented an immediate invasion of the Czechoslovakian border

In opening his speech, Chamberlain declared that Europe faced "a situation which has no parallel."

His declaration was made while thousands massed outside the historic Parliament building, waiting, intense, to know whether Europe was to be plunged into a new war.

Speaking in detail of his conversation with Hitler at Berchtesgaden after his flight there, the Prime Minister said Hitler "made it plain Sudeten Germans must have the right of self-determination."

Chamberlain described Hitler's position as:

"If they could not achieve this by their own efforts, he (Hitler) would assist them to do so. Rather than wait, he would be prepared to risk a world war."

READY TO STRIKE

"So strongly did I get the impression that the German chancellor was contemplating an immediate invasion of Czechoslovakia that I asked him why he had allowed me to travel all that way as I was evidently wasting my time," he added.

Chamberlain said he decided to return from Berchtesgaden to consult his colleagues and Hitler promised he would refrain from hostilities until a reply was received, provided nothing happened "to force his hand."

"Looking back," the prime minister asserted, "I have no doubt that my visit alone prevented an invasion for which everything was ready."

"I, of course, was in no position to give there and then such an assurance, but I undertook to return at once to consult my colleagues if he would refrain from active hostilities until I had time to obtain their reply."

GIVEN ASSURANCES

"That assurance he gave me, provided, he said, nothing happened in Czechoslovakia of such a nature as to force his hand, and that assurance has remained binding ever since."

"It was clear to me that, with German troops in the position they then occupied, nothing that

Pope in Plea to Hitler for Peace

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 28 (INS)—Pope Pius XI today for the first time publicly made known his attitude in the German-Czech crisis with an indirect appeal to Adolf Hitler's "human reason" in behalf of world peace.

The plea took the form of an editorial in the Vatican's semi-official newspaper, Osservatore Romano, calling on the German chancellor to do nothing that might precipitate a catastrophic conflict.

Referring to the Prague-accepted Anglo-French proposals to cede Sudetenland to Germany through international machinery, Osservatore contended the fate of the 3,500,000 Sudetens is not worth the carnage of war, saying:

"The previous Anglo-French proposals have brought everyone, whether in favor of Prague or Berlin, to ask whether for the sake of 3,500,000 persons an incalculable number should be sacrificed and Europe should be struck a deadly blow."

"The answer has been that it would not be human. Yet, although Hitler and Chamberlain expressly stated that (Czechoslovak President) Benes must maintain his promises, the question comes up again and this time in the following form:

"Is it possible that millions of men, among whom there is no hate nor reason for conflict, millions of men living in peace must throw themselves against one another to their destruction, not to maintain the sovereignty of a state over a people not belonging to it, but simply to support a date—October 1."

POPE PIUS

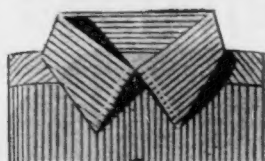

The Vatican newspaper thus urged Hitler not to launch armed action because he had set an expiration date—October 1—in his ultimatum to Czechoslovakia.

John Roosevelt Passes 'Exams'

John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President and now a stockboy at William Filene's Sons Company store, today moved along the road leading to an executive post.

Advancement of young Roosevelt was learned exclusively by the Boston Evening American, after he had successfully passed with a high mark an intelligence test given by store officials.

Along with the President's son, 60 other department store employees took the examination.

The exact number that passed the tests was not revealed.

TWO CLASSES OPEN

John's success in the "exams" qualified him to enter a merchandising class and also the advertising class.

Members of these classes are recruited into positions which eventually may place them in executive posts.

Although a member of the store class, young Roosevelt will remain for some time in the basement stockroom where he has been assigned to marking merchandise.

Two nights a week for a period of one hour young Roosevelt remains in the store and with other class members hears lectures given by store officials.

The students are also given "home lessons" to do during their evenings.

ON JOB A MONTH

It was exactly one month ago today that John launched his business career at a salary of $18.50 a week.

However, he and his bride of three months, the former Anne Lindsay Clark, of Nahant, are living in a fashionable $100 a month apartment in Brookline.

John, like his co-workers, rides to work daily in the subway and usually lunches in the store's employee restaurant.

Since his employment he has become popular with other employees and has made scores of friends. Roosevelt also takes an active part in the store's employee association, of which he is a member.

Martha Divorced, May Soon Marry

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28 (AP)—Martha Raye's divorce from Buddy Westmore becomes final today. And that means—if the movie singer hasn't changed her mind—that she'll be getting married again, very soon.

A month ago she announced she would marry Music Arranger David Hov as soon as California law would permit.

HARVARD GAG—As the farmer who put an ostrich egg in the henhouse as a mark for his hens to shoot at, Harvard students Bill Collins of Lawrence and Ben Smith (right) of Gloucester, wear fake handlebar mustaches as they greet fellow students who are trying to grow brushes on their upper lips.

Horse and Buggy Days

The handle-bar mustache appeared at Harvard today—perhaps in self-defence.

With the ladies wearing hats of the "gay 90's" and hair styles favored by Lillian Russell, Harvard boys kept pace with the old-fashioned facial adornment made famous by the great John L. Sullivan. Yes, the trend is towards lip growth although many of the students are favoring the conservative crop made popular by Clark Gable and the sophisticated lip trim which distinguishes Melvin Douglas.

The ladies are going to be kissed goodnight in the styles of yesterday or go unkissed.

Hoop skirts and tandem bicycles are next on the program at Radcliffe—and, of course, the mustache cup will make its appearance in the best of Cambridge tea rooms.

Carr, Curran Head Hurley Appointments

Governor Hurley today announced the reappointment of Peter Carr, Lawrence, as a member of the State Boxing Commission, and that of Francis M. Curran, Holyoke, as member of the State labor relations board.

Curran's reappointment was regarded with surprise in labor circles, it being recalled that the recent State Federation of Labor convention in Worcester passed resolutions condemning the labor board and its members as adverse to labor interests.

Labor leaders predicted a fight over confirmation of Curran's reappointment at the executive council meeting next week.

The governor also appointed his campaign manager, William J. Moore, Milford, a master in chancery to succeed Frank Carchio.

Other appointments and reappointments follow:

Arthur C. Wilson, Marblehead, member, Board of Dental Examiners; Gregory J. Scanlon, Holyoke, Public Administrator; John J. Barry, Everett, member, Board of Registration of Certified Public Accountants; William R. Ryan, Weymouth, Medical Examiner, Fourth Norfolk District; William F. Maguire, Randolph, and Margaret M. O'Riordan, Boston, trustees, State Infirmary.

William M. Collins, Lowell, Trustee, State Infirmary; Lawrence F. Cusick, Nahant, Associate Medical Examiner, Ninth Essex District; Frederick H. Reinsteiner, Revere, Public Administrator, vice, Coleman Silbert.

Edward E. Allen, Cambridge, Member, Advisory Board, Commission for the Blind; V. Jean Deponte, Taunton, Public Administrator; Maurice P. Spillane, Quincy, Public Administrator; Frederic H. Fay, Boston, John C. Kiley, Boston, Members, Division, Metropolitan Planning with Metropolitan District Commission; Frederick J. Mahony, Wellesley, Member, Division, Metropolitan Planning with Metropolitan District Commission.

Jury Reopens Revere Probe

Reopening its investigation of alleged vice and gambling rackets in Revere, Attorney-General Paul A. Dever's blue ribbon grand jury reconvened today.

State Detective-Sergeants Raymond Foley and Ted Johnson went before the grand jury immediately as the first witnesses.

Fifty-two persons already are under indictment as a result of the grand jury's earlier inquiry. Included are Mayor James O'Brien of Revere, Chief of Police Edward J. Tighe, other city and police officials, local business men, and alleged underworld characters.

LIKE HINES TRIAL?

Additional indictments are to be sought against many of those already named. It was understood today, and also perhaps against other persons not heretofore mentioned.

It was reported that at least six new indictments would be sought on charges of conspiracy. Like wise, to stop all loopholes, it was said, the attorney-general's office may take a page out of the recent Hines trial in New York, and seek indictments charging "obstruction of justice."

This is a charge that may be widely construed to include "almost anything," attaches of the attorney-general's office said. They recalled the fact that Justice Peck, presiding at the Hines trial, suggested at one point to Prosecutor Dewey in New York that "obstructing justice" charges might have cured many of the Hines trial's infirmities.

BEHIND LOCKED DOORS

In charge of the grand jury's present investigation in Revere is Assistant Attorney-General John S. Derham, assisted by Assistant Attorney-General Walter W. O'Donnell, and Assistant District Attorney Garrett H. Byrne.

Detective Sergeants Foley and Johnson, it was believed, were to report to the grand jury today on their undercover investigation of alleged racket conditions in Revere. It is understood they have been working secretly on the case without pause since the grand jury's earlier inquiry.

The blue ribbon grand jurors reported first to Judge Edward F. Hanifan, sitting in Suffolk Superior Court, then went into session behind locked doors.

U. S. Jury Indicts 15 Rum Runners

A batch of grand jury indictments handed to Judge George C. Sweeney today in federal court disclosed repeal of prohibition hasn't worked out bootlegging yet.

Among true bidd returned the jurors handed down indictments against 15 Massachusetts residents charging various offences against liquor laws.

At the same time the Circuit Court of Appeals for this district announced it upheld conviction of three other liquor law violators, charged with operation of a still in Norfolk.

They were George Valli, St. Andrew road, East Boston; Samuel Goldstein, Revere; and Angelo Baccchi, Fellsbury, Medford.

Firemen Will Quit Rather Than Move

Rather than follow the order that all Boston firemen must reside in the city a captain and private of the Boston fire department are expected to resign soon, Commissioner William Arthur Reilly stated today.

The captain, William J. Marshall, of Engine 31, lives in Winthrop and has decided to retire several years before his age would force retirement, instead of moving to Boston, the commissioner said.

Officials of Regis College, Weston, today announced that classes will be resumed tomorrow. Lack of electricity due to the storm caused suspension of classes Friday.

Graves on Trial Oct. 6; Name Witnesses

Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle today announced that trial of Frederick H. Graves on two perjury indictments would begin October 6 in Suffolk superior court, and 27 government witnesses will be called.

Graves, now held in Charles street jail in default of bail, is charged with having given perjured testimony against former Governor Curley in the General Equipment Company case. Graves testified before the Finance Commission and later before Judge Fosdick in superior court.

OTHERS TO APPEAR

Doyle also stated that he had notified Mrs. Lillian H. Thomas of St. Louis, material government witness, to appear here on the day the trial opens.

According to returns filed with the clerk of court, other government witnesses summoned include former Governor James M. Curley; Robert Cuniff, secretary, Boston Finance Commission; Charles Fox, Boston budget commissioner; Joseph Santuosuoso, co-defendant with Curley in the General Equipment Company case; Lillian D. Powers, Sarah C. Earley.

MANY WITNESSES

Others are Superior Court Clerk John P. Connolly, Capt. John McCarthy and Detective Paul Crowley of the Boston police department, Attorney Stuart Rand, Attorney George L. Cohen, former corporation counsel Samuel Silverman, Charles H. McGlue, former state ballot law commission chairman, and Colonel Thomas Sullivan.

Also Clason D. Curtis, George F. Hale, Francis J. Murray, Boston and Quincy bank executives; Arthur H. Whitcomb and Arthur, Jr., Axel Fryberg, Harold Osborn, Charles F. Hiley, Frederick W. Roberts, William B. Sleight, Frank S. Luciano and Richard C. Wiles.

Brockton Man Shot; Held by Police

BROCKTON, Sept. 28—A man who said he was Joseph Shirosky of this city was under police guard in a hospital today, shot in the leg during a police chase following an allegedly attempted burglary in a filling station.

The man was shot, police said, as he climbed a shed when officers surprised two men seeking entrance to the station. He was charged with attempted breaking and entering.

Sally Clark's Debut in N. Y. Is Triumph

Sally Clark, Boston debutante and sister of John Roosevelt's wife, who captured the Hub's nightclub fancy with her singing, was in an exciting new world of conquest today.

In her debut in the Perslan Room of the Hotel Plaza, New York, with Eddy Duchin's orchestra, the pliant, pretty brunette sang to a sell-out crowd. She was billed as a leading attraction.

More than 400 reservations were made to hear the society girl who threw over a socialite career for the glamour of the nightclub.

At the conclusion of each song she received hearty applause and her start in the "Big Town" seemed definitely launched along the success track.

On hand for the debut were her sister, President Roosevelt's newest daughter-in-law, her mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, and her fiancé, George X. McLanahan, whom she will wed January 6.

Eighteen-year-old Sally's Gotham triumph was another laurel that followed her success at the Ritz Roof here, where capacity crowds gathered nightly to hear her sing "You Couldn't Be Cuter" and "A Tisket, A Tasket."

Man Electrocuted Working on Wires

William J. McCarthy, 60, of Summer street, Hyde Park, was dead today, electrocuted by a transformer "flashback" as he worked on high tension lines in Westwood. Workmen brought McCarthy's limp body to the ground and firemen worked over him with a pulmotor but could not revive him.

By MRS. VIOLA MACDONALD
3 Popes Island, New Bedford, Mass.

I live at 3 Popes Island, New Bedford, between the Fairhaven and New Bedford bridges.

When the wind began to blow I ran, with several hundred others, to the local yacht club, about 300 yards away, to watch two men try to moor their boat.

Suddenly, as I stood there, I realized I was in danger from sea and wind and hurriedly sought to reach the safety of my home.

DAILY RECORD

For more than 100 feet I was forced to hold on to trees to avoid being swept away. As I reached the porch my husband caught me by the arm and pulled me inside.

Shortly, the tide reached the first floor of the house. Miss Mara, a frail old lady, was on the second floor, so my husband and I made plans to flee and take her with us.

My pet chow dog followed us out into the swirling, angry flood but, fearing he would be lost, I asked my husband to put him back into the second floor apartment.

Then we three began a terrible struggle for life with only one rope and one life preserver between us.

Through water eight feet deep, with wreckage tossing all about us, we finally reached the draw-bridge, 250 yards away. It took 55 minutes of battling to make that short distance.

I don't think any of us really felt fear. I felt regret for my pet chow, left behind alone.

When dawn broke, I returned to our homestead and imagine my joy when my dog came running to greet me.

I lost my garage, car, money, furniture, cellar and roof, but I saved my dog.

the Navy, and special reserve of officers of the Marines.

The proclamations were posted throughout the country and announced in a special issue of the London Gazette.

Evacuation of crippled children from London started and was to be completed by tomorrow. Many blind children were among the 3000 being taken from the capital.

Along with the rush to enlist in the fighting forces and the home defense corps, there was a mad dash underway by German refugees seeking naturalization as British subjects.

AIR RAID PRACTICE

The war office announced "normal" anti-aircraft practice would be conducted tonight with searchlights seeking British target planes. Wide publicity of the practice was designed to prevent spread of reports of enemy planes over London.

Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, called at the foreign office this morning.

It was stated that General Sir Edmund Ironside left London for Cairo, Egypt, to become commander-in-chief of the British army in the Middle East. Recently head of the Eastern command, Sir Edmund until a few days ago was scheduled to take over the governor-generalship of Gibraltar.

There was great activity along the south coast as fleet reservists urgently were summoned for duty.

It seemed to some observers that Britain was about to work out tactics of a blockade such as the one that starved out Germany in 1918.

Activity of the army and air corps hourly became more apparent in London.

In every park guns were manned and ready, and there was a constant movement of troops through the city. Recruiting stations did a rushing business after Chamberlain's appeal, and it was rumored some planes and tanks had been transferred to France.

Roosevelt Peace Plea Sent to Duce

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP) — White House attaches announced today that President Roosevelt had sent a personal message to Premier Mussolini "in the interest of preserving world peace."

The announcement was made in response to inquiries by Stephen Early, presidential secretary, who said the message was dispatched yesterday.

Early asserted that because the communication was personal, it would not be made public textually.

He added, however, that the note dealt with preserving world peace.

White House attaches, hailed as "very encouraging" the summoning by Hitler of representatives of England, France and Italy to a conference in Munich tomorrow.

Early told this to newsmen, advising them simultaneously that President Roosevelt's cable to the German chancellor last night probably would be the Chief Executive's final word in the European crisis.

The President urged Hitler to avoid plunging Europe into war.

Early said he did not know whether Hitler had decided to call the meeting on the basis of Mr. Roosevelt's most recent plea for peace, but that the session would hold "great hope" for a peaceful solution of the present situation.

The White House received official confirmation of the scheduled Munich meeting. Early asserted.

'Holy Sword' Given Czechs

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1938)

PRAGUE, Sept. 28—Czechoslovakia took up the sword today to defend her life.

With three days to go before the promised blow by Chancellor Hitler's mighty army falls upon this nation, the holy sword of good King Wenceslas, patron saint and founder of Bohemia 1000 years ago, was delivered to General Jan Syrový, head of the government, by Cardinal Archbishop Karel Kaspar, primate of Czechoslovakia.

It is as though the sword of Alfred the Great were delivered today to General Viscount Gort, chief of the Imperial General Staff of Britain, or that of Napoleon to General Marie Gustave Camille of France or that of Washington to President Roosevelt, were the United States under the desperate danger that now threatens the allied countries.

ANSWER TO "SNEER"

It is the answer of Czechoslovakia to Hitler's sneer that this nation is no nation at all.

For the sword of St. Wenceslas helped create the nation in the year 920, when Germans were not yet dreaming of a nation called Germany.

They took the sword from the grave of Wenceslas in St. Vito's cathedral and gave it for the first time in a thousand years into the hands of a living soldier.

Thus they made the warrior prime minister, one-eyed General Syrový, inheritor and defender of all Czech history.

The sword was drawn to protect not merely the frontiers of the state, but the lives of all the inhabitants, because of grim boasts of Sudeten Nazi chieftains now in the Reich that when they return to Czechoslovakia they will take "one thousand times the revenge."

But while apparently determined to fight, the nation prayed for peace. Churches all over the nation were crowded with worshippers observing the feast of St. Wenceslas—a traditional half-holiday.

In the streets of Prague vast crowds periodically stood still, deep in silent prayer, particularly near the monument honoring the nation's patron saint.

OPPOSE NAZI "GRAB"

Czech authorities said that if the territory demanded by Hitler, were given to him in the manner he insists upon, at least 2,000,000 inhabitants would be compelled to flee the interior of the country.

They said that 815,000 Czechs are included in the parts he claims, while around 1,000,000 Germans would for various reasons prefer not to enjoy the privileges of life in the third Reich.

This number was indicated in a manifesto issued by ten German organizations, Democrats, Socialists, Catholics, Communists and many Henleinists in the Sudeten are protesting against being handed over to Hitler and appealing to the democracies, France and England, to protect them from Nazi concentration camps.

The manifesto startlingly illuminates the real reason for Hitler's otherwise inexplicable haste. Under the Franco-British peace ban, time would be allowed for all non-Nazi Germans to move into the interior of Czechoslovakia.

Koussevitsky Scores Hitler

Characterizing Adolf Hitler as "world gangster number one," Dr. Serge Koussevitsky, in the first interview since his return to Boston from France, declared that Europe is musically dead, and laid its death at the feet of the war-lords.

"The people are in a state of prostration," he exclaimed. "They cannot hope to create in such an atmosphere. The contemporary concert in London and Venice were poor—and to be compared with the concert one hears of the United States. And is it any wonder?"

Music in Germany, he says, has become all sound and fury with nothing "from in here," tapping his chest.

"Bad taste like never before!" he exulted. And as for the French:

"Good taste, always, even with the young composers. But empty! It has nothing to say."

Europeans as the land of many crumbing Philistines, comes in for high praise from the noted conductor. For in London and Venice the greatest success of the season was that of young American composers and we have, he says, the finest interpretation of music in this country.

SAYS AMERICA EXCELS

"If it is true that there is little creation, it is also true that today we have great interpretation," he added.

"Never before have the works of the great masters been played so well. And in America they are being played more beautifully than anywhere in Europe."

Ready to go into rehearsal next Monday for the Boston Symphony season, which opens Friday, October 7, Koussevitsky was, as usual, dapper in dress and warmly enthusiastic in his delightfully accented speech.

"As for new compositions which we will play, among them will be the Stravinski concerto for orchestra, which has been given one private performance but is otherwise new in this country. And we will give the Novissima Visione, by Paul Hindemith. When I complain of the quality of contemporary German music, I except only Hindemith."

U. S. Warships Sail On Secret Orders

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 23 (AP)—Two navy cruisers, hurriedly provisioned and fueled, sped toward a secret destination today.

A third was ready to follow. Navy sources declined to confirm reports that the Concord and Cincinnati, sailing from here last night, were bound for the Atlantic coast and possibly Europe, by way of the Panama canal. The Trenton, which had been undergoing overhauling at San Pedro, was reported under orders to leave today.

HUNT ARMY OFFICER

Police of eight states today hunted Second Lieutenant William Robert Chamberlain of the U. S. Medical Corps, who disappeared from the home of his father in Belchertown on September 14.

Hitler's Rule Seen Doomed

A European conflict would "end the present kind of rule" in Germany and Italy.

That was the statement of A. C. Ratschky, former minister to Czechoslovakia, in an address before the Beverly Chamber of Commerce. Speaking of Hitler, Ratschky said:

"He will not listen to the sound advice of other countries, and now he has put his foot in his mouth."

"If Hitler does back down in his Czechoslovakian demands he will have acknowledged his defeat, and God help him."

Call Specialist For Errol Flynn

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Sept. 23 (AP)—Errol Flynn, film actor suffering from influenza and a streptococcal throat infection, was removed to a hospital today. His physician, Dr. T. M. Hearn, said the step was "precautionary."

Dr. Hearn said a throat specialist, Dr. Voyle James, had been called into consultation.

1000 MEN AGREE

—their average opinion rates Old Quaker, now 3 years old, worth $1.00 more a quart than its actual price

One thousand men—from twenty-two states—were asked to try 3-year Old Quaker and rate its worth. Their answers will cause the biggest surprise of the month in the whiskey business—will astonish whiskey experts—bring joy to whiskey buyers.

For the average opinion of these 1,000 men rated 3-year Old Quaker worth $1.39 more a quart than its actual selling price. And they smelled Old Quaker—tasted it—took a drink of it—without knowing its name, age or price.

We make the claim: Old Quaker at 3 years has reached its Golden Age. Mature on every count—due to our special method—which includes aging under scientifically controlled summer temperature and checking 51 times from grain to glass. For the straight enjoyment you get from Old Quaker, we believe you would gladly pay more than the unusually low price asked for this 3-year-old whiskey.

We Invite You To Try It

If what 1,000 men have said is true, we predict every man who loves good whiskey will want to try Old Quaker—3 years old. For in these men's opinion it offers you a clear-cut saving of at least a dollar a quart.

Try it today and see if you agree—then we'll be grateful to hear your frank opinion. *Average price exactly $1.39 more a quart.

Father of 'Gas Buggy' Dies, 76

FRANK L. LUTHER, 76, widely credited as the man who invented America's first gasoline buggy and known as the "father of the automobile," died yesterday here today.

Spencer, Mass., had claimed to have the monopoly of the automobile industry.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

MISCELLANEOUS: Emile Pierre Coulon, son of Boston's veteran hotel proprietor, Emile F. Coulon, has been given the management of the Lafayette Hotel . . . Directors of the Lowell bank which controls the property will confirm this item within a week . . . More than a dozen bidders sought to take the managerial reins of the swanky Commonwealth avenue hotel . . .

When the Democratic state committee meets next week, it will be a hotbed of argument and heated debates . . . Paul Levan, secretary to Governor Hurley, is being considered for a seat on the public utilities board . . . A vacancy will occur December 1 . . . The World's Fair at New York is seen as a possible springboard for better business in Boston hotel and New England tourists centers . . .

Mayor Tobin will attempt to pass a resolution to World's Fair visitors that the city and chamber of commerce will be a most desirable place for strangers from distant points . . .

Young Happy Robinson, the demon circulator, has a natural coloring which, in spite of his years, resembles the bloom of youth . . . He is also materially semi-perfect . . . Some of his ebullience and savoir faire vanished however, when the following greeting was extended him at Jack White's famous "No. 18" in Greeting street, New York . . .

"Here comes Young Happy Robinson," Pat Harrington observed to Jack White when the Reverend newswoman made a jaunty entrance at 2:30 a. m. into the New York night club. "You know, Jack, he looks as fresh as if he just got out of bed!"

"Yeah, of eysters," was Mr. White's dry retort.

Once Over Lightly:

Ruby Newman's band is reported as signed by the Towne Club . . . The "ape act" in the Southland show is a grotesque, powerful piece of entertainment . . . Den Rico and his continental ensemble are alternating with Buck Stutz and his band on the podium of the Brown Derby . . . The two maestro are now being "aired" on Boston stations four times a day, and Stutz got his first wire into New York at 10 p. m. last night . . .

Shelia Barrett will do a bit paraphrasing a scene from "Knickerbocker Holiday" before she concludes her week's show, which begins tonight, at the Mayfair . . .

Bernard Bennett, the Brighton piano-player, has forwarded three recordings of new songs by himself to Rudy Vallee . . . Rudy became interested in the numbers from lead-sheets sent him by the Boston lad . . . At least one of the numbers will be orchestrated in time for a spot in Vallee's repertoire for the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund jitterbug jamboree at the Boston Garden, October 24 . . .

Speaking of jitterbugs, as who isn't, it seems from the record that the expression isn't as new as may be believed generally . . . In 1934, Cab Calloway broadcasts included a "jitterbug club," and his theme song was "It's the Call of the Jitterbug" . . . Kalm and Ruby, who wrote "Moon of Manakoa," have indited a ditty named "I'm Just a Jitterbug" . . .

Jimmy Lunceford will go to the New York Kit Kat Club after his Boston engagement at the Southland . . . Orchestra leaders who surrender their batons to subordinate musicians when Lunceford playing the accompaniment for a show . . .

James R. Connolly, Boston's famous "Moon of Manakoa" star, has dramatized two of his stories . . . "Moon of Manakoa" and "The Captain" by request of Paramount pictures . . . And a novel musician has assigned him to scribble a piece on the forthcoming "The Moon of Manakoa" . . .

In the wake of the hurricane, comes a touching memo from Tom Morgan the Associated Press newsmen . . . It was printed here recently that Tom lost his black sloop, "Souris," in the big blow . . . In the mail comes a picture of the boat, her bottom stove through, her bow ripped off, and her topside a litter of wreckage, with her skipper perched ruefully on the stern . . .

This message is written on the back of the picture: "Souris is sorry she can't get out sailing again."

Rockingham Park's $40,000 loss was unwiped against by hurricane insurance . . . Nye Mayhew may resume a Boston run at a downtown nightclub. He broke the long-term engagement record for a Boston band at the Hotel St. Charles . . .

Vic Jerome will be the master of ceremonies at the next show in the Hotel Westminister's Blue Room . . . Lucille Doran, the Providence girl who has been singing with Ray Bellaire's orchestra in Virginia City, was a visitor at the Coconut Grove . . .

Want a male marmoset? . . . John Howard Gallagher, third mate on the U. S. S. Oceanographer (which is chasing Long Island Sound), has one for sale . . . He paid five packs of American cigarettes for the animal in Brazil . . . When he shipped on his present cruise two weeks ago, Third Mate Gallagher packed the marmoset with his mother at their Avon street home in Lawrence . . . The way the animal carried on in the hurricane, discouraged the Gallagher from a desire for further possession of marmosets . . . You can doubtless buy him cheap . . .

Huston's Musical Winner at Shubert

By PEGGY DOYLE

Ready the laurel wreaths for the Playwrights Producing Company, for their first offering, "Knickerbocker Holiday," the new Maxwell Anderson-Kurt Weill musical which opened last night at the Shubert, seems ear-marked for success.

Even before "Peg-Leg" Brier Stuyvesant, the irascible Dutch governor brilliantly portrayed by Walter Huston, his highly polished silver stump gleaming, gallops on-stage, the play has the audience's rapt attention.

"Knickerbocker Holiday" is gay, vital, literate and different from any musical you have ever seen. It is Pulitzer Prize-Winner Anderson's first musical and he has chosen to cut his own pattern.

He has taken a 17th century setting, lock, stock and barrel, and provided his own character with a political philosophy that has a strangely familiar ring. It is gay, good talk the longest speak, talk that is frequently larded up with puns, it is unconscious humor, the more amusing because it is as good today as in that long-ago yesterday.

Funnier than the Marx Brothers are the council members, played by George Watts, Francis Praelis, Charles Arnt, John E. Young, James Phillips, Richard Cowdery and Mark Smith, chief of the council. They might have played hooky from the Hague—they are that convincing in every glance and gesture.

They sing two songs that alone would put over any show. They are "Our Ancient Liberties" and "We Wouldn't Gonna Do It" and they stopped the show twice last night.

Huston's doughty "Old Pete" is one of his finest characterizations. Vainglorious, ruthless yet withal suggestive in the moment when it will fall from the most good, Huston plays the Stuyvesant role with lusty virility and charm.

In his brown great coat and a tall brown felt, he looks every inch a splendid fellow as he inspects the local government.

He is appalled by the ignorance and stupidity of the councilmen and is frank to tell them so. One and all have violated one or another statute incurring the hanging penalty. To save his own fat neck, Head Councilman Tienhoven affiances his pretty yellow-haired daughter, Tina, to the governor.

Meanwhile some of the finest lyrics and music you'll hear this or any other year carry on the action. You decide how Can You Tell an American, sung by Ray McInerney and Richard Kollman, is the best when the councilmen warfully chorus about "Our Ancient Liberties" or "We Wouldn't Gonna Do It" and make it a tie.

Another grand lyric is "September Song," which Huston sings. What the Huston acting skill makes up for, which is to say that he pointed up "September Song" expertly in the singing. On the encore, he showed the effect of first-night nervousness, but even Gail-Curtis has been known to do that Old Pete.

Jeanne Madden, who plays the chief councilman's daughter, Tina, was recruited from the movies. She is a pretty, pale young thing, and is particularly appropriate in the part scene with her seven petticoats. She has a hell, attractive voice and is a properly romantic teammate for Richard Kollman, playing Brom Broeck, who suffers from a rare malady—"the inability to take orders."

He and Ray Middleton, who plays Washington Irving (Washington Irving's "Knickerbocker Holiday") provided the material for Mr. Anderson's book, do some excellent singing.

The marriage of Anderson's book and lyrics to Weill's music is a perfect mating and the co-producing team of Sidney Howard, Robert E. Sherwood, S. N. Behrman, Elmer Rice and Playwright Anderson himself should be highly pleased over this, their first producing endeavor.

Jo Mielziner's stage sets, Frank Bevan's costumes and Joshua Logan's direction are flawless.

Wilbur Books Hardwicke Play

Paul Vincent Carroll's dramatic and eloquent "Shadow and Substance," with Sir Cedric Hardwicke as the star, will open its engagement at the Wilbur Theatre Monday night, October 17.

Principal support for the internationally renowned star comes from Sara Allgood, long a mainstay of the Dublin's Abbey Theatre and equally popular in London, and Julie Haydon, who was featured in the Noel Coward film, "The Scoundrel."

Eddie Dowling, who sponsored Maurice Evans in "King Richard III," is responsible for the production of the Carroll play, which deals with the mystic and emotional forces of the Celtic race.

Other artists in the production will be Harry Sutherland, Lionel Gough, Len Doyle, Jill Stern, Gerald Buckley, John L. Kearney and Almina Soudana.

The Boston engagement is a part of a transcontinental tour which will embrace more than 60 cities and end in June.

'Four Daughters' Held at Met Second Week

As was to be expected, P. t. n. has fewer than 10 daughters to inherit all the chromosomes inherited from its mother. Most polyan screens failed to stay held over 8 sec. and 5 min.

The computer film "Campus Climate Survey" comedy, produced with Betty Gracie Hancock. With a cast: Mark L. Smith, special-effects and sketch star, is a student leader.

There are at least three hands. The reasons why you should see Four Daughters—if you haven't thus far—are blonde Priscilla Lane who does the best acting of her brief film career in this one. She and her two equally attractive sisters, Rosemary and Lola Lane, are three of the four daughters of the title. The other is dark-haired Gale Page, a new-comer who is surprisingly effective.

The other two reasons? John Garfield and Jeffrey Lynn Garfield as John Garfield! achieved instant fame on the New York stage last season for his brilliant performance in Golden Boy. Lyle Lynn, also a handsome, appeared here last season in the Brother Beckett cast and in one of Broadway's most promising young men.

Gladys Swarthout In Singless Role

By LOUELLA L. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor, International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—The vogue for operatic stars has ended. Gladys Swarthout, one of the loveliest of the operatic beauties, has gone into a strange dramatic picture with nary a song in it at Paramount. Lily Pons has fished at RKO, and Grace Moore and Columbia parted company to tune of $55,000 in settlement of their contract some months ago.

It's one of those things difficult to understand. Josephine MacDonald of all singing stars seems to go along, but perhaps it is because great care has been used in the selection of her stories and she has Nelson Kelly as her costar. Gladys Swarthout, however, may prove that she can continue without her vocal singing voice. She will have Lloyd Nolan playing opposite her and Ernest Thayer and Bill Bradley in featured roles with Kurt Neuman directing.

A very warm Marie O'Brien accompanied Alexander Korda to the airport. Marie had broken down on the set earlier in the day, worried over the war scare in England, which so many of her friends had left to go to, and over the fact that she had been called unexpectedly to London.

The first feathers company arrived to have the set for the exterior scene. The members of the cast were gathered to the "government" that they will not leave England because of the war scare.

Victor Mature is half as handsome as Charles Rogers does when he is in the "Cock and Bull" show. Taylor and Bill Flynn will have been competing for a long time. Mature on a long term contract, and has given him the lead in "Star Maker". Mature who is six feet two in a stocky feet was playing the lead in "Autumn Dreams" at the Paramount Playhouse when he was seen here.

A line of two. After trying to keep a quiet, that came to a

When Tim Brown and Joe Egan looked out after and Julia were overturned and blown back though no one seems to know what brought it on. When little Nancy Morris commented Shirley Temple on her "Wonderful Handwriting" (as photographed a picture) Shirley came back with a sigh and said: "You know, it almost has the same."

The crazy Hollywood has gone in for a new one of special interest to golfers like Al Jolson, Ray Keeler, Don Ameche and Ike Oakie. It's a driving range called "Hoi-N-Won" and you have to make one to win! That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Martha Raye Film Tops Bowdoin Bill

"Give Me a Sailor" with Martha Raye, Bob Hope and Betty Grable, the screen feature at the Bowdoin Square through Friday. On the same bill is "Gateway," stirring story of Ellis Island featuring Don Ameche and Arleen Whelan.

GAIL PATRICK and Lloyd Nolan have two of the top roles in "King of Alcatraz" which opens tomorrow at the Fenway and Paramount.

New Play for Broadway

Richard Aldrich and Dennis Mackay have acquired the stage rights to "Lolita" by Vladimir Nabokov, French playwright who wrote the enormously successful stage comedy, "Tovarish" in association with Sir C. de Harewood. They hope to present the play on Broadway in October. Mr. Aldrich and

Unconquered New England Brave Faces W

Death and desolation like this in Rhode Island offers its challenge to New England... and New England answers the challenge bravely.

ged the Courage of New England . . . Courage That Finds Expression as New England Rebuilds With Eyes to the Skies.

OUT OF THE RUINS!

The Editor Says:—Graphically and admirably, Artist Nelson Harding expresses the spirit that speeds reconstruction and rehabilitation in New England.

Our life and property losses are great beyond comprehension. Years of effort by men and nature will be required really to repair the damage done in a few hours by the hurricane and floods.

BUT WE DO NOT DESPAIR. Our cities, towns, counties and States work together, unitedly and effectively. The Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Elks and other charitable organizations and individuals are rallying to our assistance.

Official red tape is being cut in Washington, and we look forward to much-needed relief from the WPA, the Federal Disaster Loan Corporation and the Federal Reconstruction Corporation.

It is a period that challenges every person, man, woman or child, to do or to contribute something to relieve the distress and suffering of a less fortunate person.

Let it be said years hence that nobody was found lacking in sympathy or failed in his duty.

PRAISE AND GRATITUDE are due the First National Stores and the A. and P. Food Stores; their Tuesday appeal to the New England consuming public to come to the aid of apple growers, principal sufferers in last week's hurricane, was a shining example of co-operation and usefulness.

Farmers and orchardists everywhere enthusiastically applauded the tribute paid these two great business organizations by Mr. R. W. Doe, nationally known store executive, at the Boston Conference of Distribution.

Our apple growers, despite their losses, are not crying over their misfortune. With a courage that is truly remarkable they have accepted their fate.

As the First National Stores and the A. and P. Food Stores tell us, growers ask only that we help them quickly to market their crops by making the health-giving apple a part of our daily diet.

THE LOGICAL MAN to fill the unexpired term of the late John A. Keliher, Suffolk County sheriff, is City Councilor John F. Dowd, victor in the recent Democratic primary election. Governor Hurley should appoint him immediately.

To select another man for this office would be to ignore the wishes of thousands of voters who, through the medium of the ballot, expressed their faith and confidence in Councilor Dowd.

It was always to his credit that upon the sudden death of Sheriff Keliher Councilor Dowd was able to say:

"I refrained from speaking one word of criticism of the sheriff, even though I realized that those who were sponsoring his candidacy would seize upon that fact and proclaim that I was destitute of any sense."

"I would rather have failed of nomination than to have attempted to profit by attacking the record of so grand an old warrior as John A. Keliher."

SENATOR LODGE, sincere and practical friend of the people, gives us wise and timely advice in these words:

"We must make this nation secure for the aged and youth and take NECESSARY steps to insure a safe future; we MUST MAINTAIN military defenses sufficiently strong to match those of other nations, particularly aggressor nations."

It would be the height of folly for the United States again to make itself so weak and defenseless that its people would be gravely imperiled.

As Senator Lodge judiciously says, WE ARE NOT GOING OVER THERE. THEY ARE NOT COMING OVER HERE, AND AN ARMY, NAVY AND AIR FORCE BIG ENOUGH AND STRONG ENOUGH TO REPEL ANY FOREIGN POWER WILL GUARANTEE IT.

The Human Side of the News

Critics Cool to "Lightnin'"

By EDWIN C. HILL

FRED STONE spent his early years under the shadow of Long's Peak, Colorado higher than Pike's Peak, in the Rockies. It is a shadow which he cannot, is thrown far across the prairies and tablelands. And Fred Stone in New York, casts back a even longer shadow, beyond Long's Peak and on to the coast.

Our theater, peculiarly among all the theater of the world has achieved indigenous humanism, and he, at 68, is the essence and brew of this native tradition, as was the late Will Rogers.

It is one of the intangibles which is never weighed in our political and economic appraisals.

It was, of course, some Olympian decree which impelled Fred Stone and John Golden to revive "Lightnin'." There is classic Greek fulfillment in Fred Stone playing old Lightnin' Bill Jones, who herded a swarm of bees across the desert and never lost a one.

Lake Will Rogers, shaggy and lovable Fred Stone just rounding out his 50th year on the stage seems to get his cue lines from somewhere away back along the old covered wagon trail traversed by his parents deep into the sunlight and snowfall of the high Rockies.

"Lightnin'," written by the late Frank Bacon and Winchell Smith, opened August 26, 1918, at the old Gaiety Theater in New York and ran until August 28, 1921.

VETERAN ACTOR FRED STONE
Has "Lightnin'" Taps the Tear Fountain

with Mr. Bacon in the title role. That gave it 1291 performances, believed then to be a record for all time.

Abie's Irish Rose ran five years and Tobacco Road recently has passed Lightnin's mark, but it remains as one of the three winners in the history of our theater.

President Wilson saw it three times and wrote the producers an enthusiastic letter, as did President Harding when it closed. Mr. Bacon had written the play as "The House Divided." John Golden, the producer, gave him suggestions for re-writing. The title was once borne by John Golden himself. In his Ohio village, the town druggist ironically had nick-named him "Lightnin' Johnny," because he was a slow-moving dreamy lad. He passed it on to Bacon.

"Lightnin'" got more enthusiastic critical cheers than any other play of its time. In the revival, although Mr. Stone triumphs as usual, there is now critical restraint about the play, interesting to note in contrast with the eager and lavish praise given the first production.

"Lightnin'" still taps the fountain of tears and stirs happy laughter. We will await the verdict of the jury.

I HAPPEN to have an old friend, a New York newspaper man, who grew up in Fred Stone's country, and remembers the village tongue-wagging over the boy who went off with the circus when he should have been taking up some land and learning to be a good farmer.

Stone became not only an actor, but a clown, a stock-woman, minstrel.

My friend tells me that the white crown of Long's Peak rested serenely above Fred Stone's boyhood world like Hawthorne's "Great Stone Face." Some kind of early conditioning seems to have made him similarly instinctual in our theater.

The Brighter Side

'Mental Big People' Kindle War Fires

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IF WE HAD the say-so, it would probably take a sight of aggression from another country before we would send this nation into war again. We are inclined to think we would stand for just about everything, except downright menace to our liberty and our home.

The trouble is, however, it is not our kind that has the say-so about going to war.

We are of the little people of the earth, and it is not the little people who decide about wars. It is the big people, and specifically the mental big people who do the thinking for little people like us and tell us when it is time to go to war.

The financial giants are often blamed for wars, but they are not half as responsible as the mental big people, who may not have any great worldly means, but who have fluency of thought and expression and can think too fast for us little people—who can make roundabout speeches and turn glowing phrases and arouse us little people to strange heights of what is no doubt patriotic fervor.

Us little people just fight the wars. It is our kind that goes, young and undeveloped physically as well as mentally, to the wars.

MENTAL BIG PEOPLE get us little people to meetings and start off by assuring us that they are 100 per cent Pacificists and that they shudder at the very thought of war, but the next thing we know they have us all hopped up with their verbal effulgence and we are cheering like the Dickens and feeling inside us a great heat of indignation that we would later have difficulty analyzing.

They have done it before, and you can find the sad results among the little people of the land to this very day—sick and battered and blind little people who have known no physical ease and comfort for 20 years—little people who left their youth on the battlefields of a foreign land, to no purpose whatever as it turned out.

They will do it again—these mental big people. You are, us little people have no great moral courage in these situations. It is not our fault. It is just the way we are built. Take our own individual case for example. Many a time we wish we had the nerve to stand up and say to those mental big people:

"Just a minute now, boys. Let's not go off half-cooked. Let's give this matter more serious consideration. Let's think about us little people."

WITHOUT waiting for word from the mental big people, most of us little people would gladly march out to die if we could be sure that it would remove forever the hand of oppression.

But it never works out that way. The little people of the world have been dying for hundreds of years and the hand of oppression remains and all the mental big people seem able to do about that is to assure us in one breath that they want peace and in the next offer the not too subtle hint that it is time for us little people to get going again.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

THE RIBBONS in buttonholes are a language of flowers in Europe that few tourists decipher. Every man you meet has a bit of chromatic finery in his dexter lapel.

MOST POPULAR, of course, is Napoleon's Legion of Honor sash, which is worn by the average Frenchman above his belt. There are now around 5000 exclusive inductions made every year.

THERE ARE NO fancy variations nor manifestations of idleness when two wearers of the same ribbon meet each other. If they are lodge members they don't show it. We watched a couple the other day and they looked each other over for longitude and latitude, glared at the riskened replicas and sniffed like two victims of the same hygienic meeting in court.

NAPOLEON'S decorations in one with Nineveh and the ex-cart. His dynasty has thinned down to minus zero. But the Napoleonic Code, the Napoleonism and the Napoleon Legion of Honor are the institutions of this shadow. The old boy must have known something when he said he could do more with a yard of ribbon than he could with an army division.

Busy Social Season Ahead

By BETTY ALDEN

JUST IN CASE you harbor the thought that the debutantes and their older sisters have nothing on their minds but a round of parties . . . cast your eye on the most cultured and interesting affair in which many of them will be having a warm time in the coming season.

Then, unless you are just a die-hard you will be glad to admit that the girls will be working on committees to help the poor, the lame and the maimed, keep up the good work of the past season, and the morning have started and also began.

For instance . . . the Mrs. William D. O'Brien Mornings of Debutantes, which began on October 20, will be the Countess of last season's guest artist. . . She will lecture on "Queen Victoria's Dress," the lectures are for the benefit of the Free Hospital for Women.

There are also the Morning Musicales . . . which attract not only the sisters but also many of the debs.

The Junior League have a course of meetings on the subject of "The Art of Dressing" on October 11, and they are on subjects which are far from frivolous.

Then there is the Boston Symphony, starting a week from Friday . . . the Dan Lusk's concert on October 9 . . . and the Ballet Russe on November 9 . . . And, of course, there is a wealth of good theater coming to Boston within the next month or so . . . Did anyone say that Boston was slipping in its reputation?

Socialites Attend Shubert Premiere

Sparking of the season . . . Boston society was well represented at the opening of "Kissed by a Booby" at the Shubert last night.

Miss Mary Lind, particularly lovely in a gown of claret red with sequins for cape trailing her shoulders . . . Ginny Phelan wore an eye-catching gown of flame color, with white fox wrap . . . She wore gold waves in her hair, which, however, she is still wearing "blond" . . . Mrs. George M. Proctor, 3d, with a mauve cape and a long-trimmed gown, was with Mrs. Wallace Fernald, who wore white and a white maroon cape . . .

Nancy Gosselin was very smart in street clothes, black crepe dress with red gloves . . . she attended the opening with her sister, Lucy, and Edith Wright of Cuba, who is the daughter of Ambassador J. Butler Wright . . . Mrs. Daniel Pinkham, her shining blonde hair done in a page-boy in back and rolled-back curls in front, was wearing black crepe . . . Mrs. Walter Friend wore black velvet with ermine trimming, and wore her auburn hair rolled around her back and held by combs . . .

Mrs. Susan Johnson, former Virginia Rice of tennis tournament fame, looked too, too lovely in regal black velvet, with her hair piled in Grecian style atop her head . . . Mrs. G. Winthrop Brown (Emily Evatt) was in the same box . . . she also chose rich black velvet, with square décolletage outlined with a band of ermine . . .

Among the Debutantes

MR. AND MRS. ROGER B. MERRIMAN will give a luncheon for their debutante daughter, Helen, on Sunday, October 23, at the Master's Lodgings, Eliot House, Cambridge . . . As this will be the eve of the Harvard-Dartmouth game, this luncheon, contrary to custom, will be a "co-ed" affair . . .

Ace Rider

Dedham Gymkhana
Attracts Best

DARBY ALMY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Almy of Dedham, who will undoubtedly ride in the Gymkhana at Dedham Polo and Country Club Saturday morning. She is one of the accomplished younger riders who participate in the junior drag hunts.

Three Debs
To Be Honored

Among the debutantes who will be presented in October are Nancy Campbell Tenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell C. Tenney of Massachusetts avenue, Lexington; Louise Barbour, daughter of the Thomas Barbour of Clarendon street and Beverly Farms, and Priscilla Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Freeman of Boston.

Nancy Tenney will make her debut at a dance given by her parents at the Algonquin Club on October 28. She went to Beaver Country Day School and to Miss Porter's in Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Barbour will present Louise at a dance in the exclusive Carlton Club on Friday evening, October 21.

Priscilla Freeman will make her bow at a luncheon at Longwood Towers on October 8.

Dance Friday
In South Boston

The Strandway A. C. will hold its annual pre-season football dance at the Municipal Building, South Boston, Friday evening, at 8 o'clock. Members of the committee are James McCarthy, treasurer, John Duffy, and Carmelo Priolo.

Regis Guild Opens
Season Friday

Regis Guild's season gets underway Friday morning with a rummage sale in Horticultural Hall.

A flying squadron has been formed of guild members to collect the merchandise. In the group are Hannah Heardon of Newton, Mrs. J. J. Devaney of Watertown, Mrs. William McGee of Belmont, Mrs. George Farrell of Allston, Mrs. Joseph Goff of West Roxbury and Mrs. G. Frank McDonald of Jamaica Plain. Anybody wishing to donate articles may get in touch with any of the above committee members.

There will be a tea party at the scholarship tea house on Monday, October 10, with the annual meeting taking place the next day at the League House, 1 Arlington street.

The nominating committee is meeting next week under chairmanship of Mrs. Sydney Dunn. Serving as her aides are Mrs. T. Edward Sheehan, Mrs. Thomas M. Kelley, Mrs. Charles P. Carey and Mrs. William Knodell.

The annual fover bridge will take place at the college the last Saturday in October and will be followed by the Guild luncheon, November 16, at the Hotel Lafayette.

Mrs. Joseph V. Carroll, president, is planning to receive members and friends at a Christmas wrapping sale and tea at her home on November 20. The December meeting will take place on the 13th at the League House.

Miss Erwin
To Wed Soon

Joining the ever-increasing ranks of Columbus Day brides is Katherine Erwin of Braintree, former officer of the Aristos Club, who has chosen the holiday morning as the date of her wedding to Martin Canavan of Cambridge.

The ceremony will take place in Sacred Heart Church in Weymouth. Kae is a popular member of the young set and is well-known in amateur theatrical groups. She is also active in alumnae affairs of the Mary Rooney School of Elocution.

Groton Hunt
Plans Events

The first Fall run of the Groton Club takes place on Saturday afternoon when the drag hounds will meet at the Holden residence in Shirley, where tea will be served to the members, with Mrs. Charles W. Keyes as hostess.

On Wednesday, October 5, members will congregate at the Blanchard home at 7:30 in the morning, and on Saturday, October 8, there will be a third run, this one in the afternoon.

Aristos Club
Members Plan
Harvest Fair

Plans are rapidly going forward for the Aristos Club harvest fair scheduled for October 22 in the main ballroom of the Hotel Somerset. Mrs. Howard Rooney of Brighton general chairman held a meeting recently at the Somerset when reports of the various groups were read.

Madeleine Griffin of Hyde Park and Virginia Padden of Winthrop in charge of the doll booth will be hostesses at a special meeting at Madeleine's home in Hyde Park next Monday evening.

Evelyn McManus of Dorchester is arranging a fur fashion show while Sally Connell is busy interesting people in the dance, another feature of the gala event in aid of scholarship fund.

Bridge, beans, wheels of fortune, a baby show and fortune tellers are other events on the program.

Donation Day
For Hospital

Mrs. William Dana O'Neill of Commonwealth avenue has issued an appeal, as chairman of the committee, for contributions to a Donation and Visiting Day for the Free Hospital for Women in Brookline, to be held on Thursday, October 6.

The committee asks for gifts of money, in large or small amounts, and for foodstuffs and equipment of all kind.

Mrs. Richard Saltmire is chairman of the ladies' board for the Donation Day. Others serving on committees are Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer, Mrs. Frank Henry, Louise Condit, Mrs. H. Wendell Edmeston, Mrs. G. Richmond Estwing, Mrs. Royal Little, Mrs. Richard C. Paine, Mrs. Samuel E. Peabody, Mrs. D. W. Russell, Alice Sargent, Mrs. Philip S. Sears, Mrs. Edward Taft, Mrs. Channing Wells, Mrs. Mary Williams and Mrs. Joseph F. Woods.

GYMKHANA SATURDAY

The Dedham Country and Polo Club will have one of its most interesting events on Saturday in the annual Gymkhana in which many of the expert junior riders will take part. Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Robert B. Almy M. F. H., of Dedham.

HOURLY PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE STOCK MARKET

The stock market executed a startling right-about-face today after opening down 1 to 3 points. Losses were made up gains of 1 to 5 points substituted in a wild buying outburst.

14-11 (E. S. T.)—Prices crashed 1 to 3 on heavy selling against the new European peace. The market had a lot to contend with for over an hour before it opened. Foreign currencies slumped sharply against the dollar, commodity prices were mostly weak and peace hopes had practically disappeared. The result was a flood of liquidation that quickly put the market behind. A group of minutes and reports indicated that some stocks were entirely without a market. Announcement of the national policy at Munich tomorrow brought a reaction. Rumors were made up and on many previous closings battered. The tape was still in an enthusiasm for peace evened all bounds. Transfers 101,337 shares.

11-12 (E. S. T.)—The tape was still moving at a terrific pace. Battered word was flashed from the floor that for about 15 minutes just after the start of heavily such leaders as Chrysler, Rubber and General Motors could not be traded by specialists because of jam in buying orders. The initial excitement on the conference news wore off and prices backed away from tape but soon ran into support. Some of the headlines moving such as Electric Auto Lata, which had been up 5 did not recover to last levels. However, their price was taken on others and the market edged ahead as a result of trading again.

11-13 (E. S. T.)—The market was again in a terrific pace. Trading was extremely active before had been continued in the depths of despair were shouting "we are" and trading on panic orders. These seemed to be no stopping prices but soon heads thought the pace much too fast. A group of minutes and reports indicated that some stocks were entirely without a market. Announcement of the national policy at Munich tomorrow brought a reaction. Rumors were made up and on many previous closings battered. The tape was still in an enthusiasm for peace evened all bounds. Transfers 101,337 shares.

Retail Trade To Speed Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (INS)—September earnings of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. will more than eliminate the $458,423 net loss the road had in the first eight months of the year, Ralph Budd president of the company said today. A total of $1,000,000 in loans obtained earlier in the year have been paid off, he said.

War Scares Are Lesson For Business

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKESER
International News Service
Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—With world history rapidly in the making, it is necessary to revise interpretation on an hourly basis. But behind the clamor of the moment there are underlying principles in the European crisis which constitute a significant analogy for the business executive. In particular, one outstanding lesson is that when your own creation is in part defective or vulnerable, you thus create an opportunity for your adversaries. The shortcoming of the Versailles Treaty in the matter of creation of puppet states and otherwise have recently given the principal dictators in present day Europe a pretext of something to exploit.

FORECAST SITUATION

John Maynard Keynes, former chief economist of the British Treasury, had the courage of his convictions. When his advice was quoted by the British government, it was in vain. In his book, "The Economic Consequences of the Peace," Keynes predicted that the mistakes at Versailles would have to be liquidated. Now, for the application of this historic sequence of events to men in business in the United States. To the extent that there were speculative errors and wildcat financing in the last boom period, they created the demand for subsequent series of restrictive measures.

BUILDERS' RESENTMENT

The employer who gives his workers less than the minimum permitted under competitive conditions builds up a resentment which strengthens the hands of outside "agitators." The corporation official who falls short of a high standard of ethics, gives criticism ammunition with which to attack all private enterprise. A human enterprise can succeed still. It must progress or recede. The obligations to make business policies right and socially justifiable are progressive and continuous. By continuously taking the initiative, and using common sense and engineering to make the work more productive and by dealing generously with their human associates, business men can make the economy invulnerable to attacks by rabble rousers and demagogues.

Stock Market Delay

Due to the fact New York is on Eastern standard time this week while New England stays on daylight saving time as an emergency measure, there is an unavoidable time delay in the market closing. For the balance of the week opening prices will not be available until 11 a. m., daylight saving time while the market close will not be reported until 6 p. m. daylight saving time.

War Peril Is Likened to N. E. Hurricane

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics,
New York University

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Not having heard for four days from my wife up in New Hampshire, I drove up Sunday. The chaos of uprooted trees and tangled wires was indescribable. Not in 20 years, if ever, has such a hurricane struck New England. It is a fitting background for the war clouds in Europe. The physical and economic havoc and the mental shock are all up there. Without rhyme or reason, the land has been desolated.

So it is with the stock market and war. The prices of stocks tend to drop at the beginning, because there is great uncertainty, and men see that in the end the result is destruction. There is danger that all will be caught in the war hurricanes.

PROFIT BECKONS

There comes the thought that some may profit by manufacturing war munitions and supplies, and the "war babies" are whirled up in price—the steel, metal, airplane, certain chemical stocks, etc. Also the fear of war inflation suggests putting money into stocks. This is a usual occurrence. The present case, however, is a bit different, conditions have been established which tend to knock the attraction out of "war baby" stocks. We have a law forbidding exports to combatants, and we would doubtless try to tax heavily any large war profits. It is doubted that "war babies" would be allowed to become the basis of private wealth.

FUND WITHDRAWAL

The full effect of general war, it is feared, might be to cause the withdrawal of foreign funds from this country. This might bring some liquidation of investments. This is a question as to whether now European nations could pay us. Most of them are in a debt on either war debts. Finally, would we not be drawn into the war even if we stay? Then all business would be "drafted." (We might even be up a creek.)

SYMPATHIES CLEAR

But I believe that some of the pessimism is overcome. I believe our sympathies are clear, and that we would, in fact, go largely to England and France. Many important supplies would not be held to be "munition." Much would be through neutral lands. The huge amounts of foreign gold and funds over here would be used to pay us. As our sympathies intensified with actual war, we would allow profits to stimulate production. So the "War Babies" would not cry for a while.

BOSTON EDISON COMPANY DIVIDEND NO. 198

A quarterly dividend of $5.00 per share has been declared, payable November 1, 1938, to stockholders of record at the close of business on October 10, 1938. Checks will be mailed from Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, Mass.

Prices provide the answer as to whether or not a movement is going too fast or too slow. And starting with such a simple formula we can then undertake a study of actual conditions.

In the present insurance prices have not moved ahead appreciably since early summer.

When the relation of inventories is considered in conjunction with price behavior, there is a strong hint of a healthy industrial position.

The one thing that could arise is a reflux such an assumption would be a falling off of consumption. Right now it is upward and as inventories are still declining the logical assumption is that the stage is set for further gains.

It is by following that basic formula that we feel secure in forecasting a growth in buying that will swell industrial production figures at the same time higher price levels are inaugurated.

The war clouds persist in clinging close to the financial markets. However, as we wrote here yesterday a rift has appeared. It can hardly be termed conclusive but it is more than welcome and at least provides a reason for hoping that it may be the break before the gloom lifts. At worst there is a disposition evident to sit around the arbitration table.

The thing to remember is that markets are always moving. Each market is shaped by its own forces, and when a market moves, it is a fulfilled expectation must follow.

From a letter with international conditions we pass on this last market. The war clouds persist in clinging close to the financial markets. However, as we wrote here yesterday a rift has appeared. It can hardly be termed conclusive but it is more than welcome and at least provides a reason for hoping that it may be the break before the gloom lifts. At worst there is a disposition evident to sit around the arbitration table.

Urge Tax Repeal on $5,000,000 Incomes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (INS)—The House of Representatives today passed a bill to repeal the 63-cent tax on incomes of $5,000,000 or more. The bill was passed by a vote of 348 to 100.

Austen Lake: Leaf From Wonderland's Ledger: or How to Vote

THOSE ENTERPRISING PROPAGANDISTS of Wonderland's pooch saucer are mailing out batches of free tickets for Saturday night's renewal of their moonlit madness. The passes are enclosed in a neat sepia folder which contain explicit instruction to the electorate of Suffolk County on how to mark its ballots in the November race referendum. The merry-go-round people wish the voters to be educated on the issues involved. They want them to vote intelligently. They want them to vote "yes." They say so!

AUSTEN LAKE

And why not? Vote early, good citizens. Peruse the ballots meticulously and, if the following amendments can be discovered anywhere in suffrage booths, please heed the vote instructions published here by recommendation of counsel, Wyken, Blinken & Nod.

REFERENDUM NO. 1—Shall the proposed chapter cent, meenie, minie, mo of the libel code provide for summary electrocution of college alumni who pen, type or telegraph messages to sport writers or by telephone or personal word of mouth, castigate and writers for alleged discrimination against their favorite football colleges?

Vote in the negative. If enacted, this amendment would obliterate completely all alumni of all institutions now equipped with football varsities. What use are football writers without alumni readers?

Choice of Nuisances

AMENDMENT NO. 2—SHALL THE overture and prologue to the World Series be altered to provide that umpires, coaches, managers and captains be obliged to scan the Pittsburgh (sic, Chicago) and Yankees (sic, Boston) lineups preceding each contest, to determine the ground rules and the order of play, instead of convening at the batter's box and haranguing each other with eleventh-hour effects and much oratory, as though they never saw the field before.

Vote emphatically in the affirmative. But don't expect them to conform. Pre-game amenities are very dear to the hearts of the punctilio ball people.

PROPOSITION NO. 3—Shall articles V and X of the Football Crowd Code provide that any adult parties, male or female, who assist, contribute or facilitate in the knocking down of goal posts either during or following football games, shall be obliged, for no more than ten days and not less than five immediately thereafter, to saw, chop or tear down defunct trees in municipal forests and put them to fireplace length for supplying local charity asylums?

Vote Out, Ja, Da, Si and Yee! and use an indelible pencil.

Vital to Public Welfare

PROPOSAL NO. 4—SHALL SECTION CUBS OF THE Massachusetts Boxing laws instruct referees to be equipped at all times in the ring with meat saws for severing the arms of alleged fist fighters who insist on hugging each other after the thirty-fourth request to break clean?

Vote indignantly No. Meat saws are too deliberate. The ref. should use a cleaver.

PROPOSITION NO. 5—Shall Act 1, Scene 2 of the Financial budget of the New England A. A. U. provide that at least 119th of all revenue be paid to the players and their families and dues paid by kid with less than ten years' experience be expended in providing junkies for passing through the social conventions.

Vote Yes with nine tails and a tiger.

AMENDMENT NO. 6—Should provision be made for not pressing all cases of assault with felonious intent, including garroting, sticking, hatching or boiling in oil of any rattiff who volunteers a stroke-by-stroke story of any golf match in which he participated, and shall any instance where homicide occurs be counted justifiable?

Vote Yes with pin pricks, and offer suitable reward to any public spirited citizen who accomplishes such an act of civic devotion.

In Defense of the Commonwealth

DICTUM NO. 7—SHALL CLAUSE 12, section 20, chapter 39 of football regulations be amended to provide that all officials who are unable to play out of the way of players or free balls be obliged to wear thigh pads, shoulder guards and head harness of regulation size?

Defeat this pernicious amendment, lest the officials be encouraged to take greater part in the game, which is already excessive.

PROPOSAL NO. 8—Shall the proportion of politicians, social grifters, and wives permitted to occupy working press seats at championship fights, football games and wrestling bouts be restricted to 3 moosehairs per each toilet article?

Vote No. The incessant chatter of the moosehairs, their kibitzing over shoulders and continual squirming, beguile the writer's boredom and make work a pleasure.

AMENDMENT NO. 9—Shall the Commonwealth be required to acquire war and feathers in sufficient quantity to coat completely all fight announcers and radio commentators who exaggerate, annoy and irritate helpless victims with interminable and intolerable preliminary dissertations on the whiteness of nothing?

Vote Ay-yi-yi and volunteer for the swearing committee.

Cubs Take Lead If Bryant Wins

FATEFUL SLIDE—Augie Galan, Cubs centerfielder, slides into second base in first game of vital series with Pirates.

AUGIE'S HURT—Galan lies on ground with twisted knee as teammates gather around him. He's out for balance of season but should be back in time for World Series—if any.

LITTLE POISON—Lloyd Waner slides safely into third base in first inning. He got no farther. Cubs won behind superlative pitching of Dizzy Dean. Score was 2-1.

Dizzy Dean Is There In Pinch

CHICAGO, Sept. 24 (AP)—Those impending Chicago Cubs, noted in baseball history as great stretch runners, were after the Pittsburgh Pirates and the National League leadership today.

In one of the most furious post-season drives in recent years, the Cubs battled the Pirates in the second of a three game series at Wrigley Field, with victory meaning an edge which would climax a drive the Cubs believe from a position nine games back little more than a month ago.

One half a game separated the teams as they squared away, the Cubs third-packed 2 to 1 victory yesterday having clipped a full game off the lead held by the Pirates.

CUBS RELY ON BRYANT

The Cubs, who have won 10 of their last 12 games, are looking for a victory which would put them in a position to challenge the Pirates for the lead in the National League. The Cubs are looking for a victory which would put them in a position to challenge the Pirates for the lead in the National League.

"We're still ahead," said the Pirates' manager, Harold (Doc) Briggs, "and the Cubs still have to catch us. We've been out in front since July and it takes a real club to hold the lead that long. We've got one. Those balls that Dizzy Dean lobbed up to us yesterday looked as big as pumpkins—and we'll make up today for those hits we didn't get yesterday."

The Cubs, in a race with the Pirates, are looking for a victory which would put them in a position to challenge the Pirates for the lead in the National League. The Cubs are looking for a victory which would put them in a position to challenge the Pirates for the lead in the National League.

Dean's triumph, his seventh of the year, put the Cubs eighth in the race, but the Pirates' victory of Augie Galan's superb catch, probably for the remainder of a Cubs five-game schedule. He turned a knee sliding into second base trying to break up a double play in the second inning. Young Phil Cavaretta was sent to right field, with Frank Demaree going to left, and the arrangement was to be followed again today.

A throng of more than 4,000 fans packed the stands, and the game was expected to be a close one. The Cubs are looking for a victory which would put them in a position to challenge the Pirates for the lead in the National League.

The Pirates, after the first inning, were leading 1-0. The Cubs were looking for a victory which would put them in a position to challenge the Pirates for the lead in the National League.

Newark Needs One To Clinch Series

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 28 (INS)—One more victory over Buffalo will give the Newark Bears, winner of the International League pennant for the second consecutive year, the Governor's Cup, a $500 purse and the right to represent the American Association playoff winner in the Little World Series. Newark strengthened its chances of eventual victory by defeating the Braves, 9-7, last night and grabbing a 3 to 1 game advantage. Should Buffalo take today's game, the remaining play-off contests will be staged at Newark.

Lipscomb said no player was in doubt of his job except the halfbacks. The Rams lost to Washington 35-13 for the third straight game, their fourth straight defeat this year.

Definitely sold on Captain Jimmy Conway, Ed Little, Ken Hadden and Emanuel Fraw' Fraw' as a starting backfield. Coach Jimmy Lorn of Northeastern today turned his attention to his second string full backs.

For the first time, Dunn has favored one computer for post-aid, and which one to eliminate is what bothers him. "So far Remit-Tul," a sophomore, seems to have the quickest work, followed up with Intel-Gitney and J-C, who looks good at the half and A-S, who seems to be the best, apparently won the feedback test.

That leaves Saele-Castana and Joe Benito battling it out for the mid-half assignment. Benito seems to have the edge, having played more regularly than his adversary. Last year he did a creditable job, but in for Jimmy Castana when the time was right. In fact, he was the only senior to get action, even in the second

Cubs Mobilize Lee for Attack

By "BUGS" BAER

Bill Lee, the Boston Cubs' ace pitcher, is looking like trouble. From now on he will be a star in the Cubs' attack during the war. We used to call him "Billie" but now we call him "Billie Lee."

Bill stepped in and took over for Dizzy Dean after Dizzy started to hurt and pull like an outboard motor in the ninth. Bill had worked the day before and will probably work again tomorrow like a dish washing machine in an all-night restaurant.

That's how he got the baseball attack. He was a star in the Cubs' attack during the war. We used to call him "Billie" but now we call him "Billie Lee."

That's when Bill Lee strode forth on his hind legs and took over. Bill is a combination of a great general and a famous steamboat. He doesn't put chestnuts out of the fire. He puts them in. The result is that the Cubs have won a score of a few to some, and now they are within a little sprint of first place with Bill Lee doing all the pitching until the night before Christmas.

The result is that the Cubs have won a score of a few to some, and now they are within a little sprint of first place with Bill Lee doing all the pitching until the night before Christmas.

We gave the pitcher to Dizzy Dean last week and now we will have to take it back. If Bill Lee pitches tomorrow, he may rattle these Cubs' right into the King row. However the Pirates have a slight lead left and it is not moving day until October first. Even Homer knows that.

This article sounds like it's about a bird named Bill Lee. It's a certified and guaranteed pleasure to write about any pitcher who can leave two days in succession without getting upset before his eyes that would make a coal, vest and pants for a leopards.

MR. BOSTON

McLean's Death Rated Baldwin as Loss to Athletics Brilliant Fighter

By JACK CONWAY

WHEN A GREAT sports character like Alex MacLean dies, I always feel that the entire community has suffered an acute personal loss.

Mr. Boston

Bicycle rider, owner of the Revere bicycle track, manager of boxers, promoter of boxing and wrestling shows, director of Marathon races and of roller skating rinks, Alex MacLean was a very active citizen during his 62 years of life.

It was only a few weeks ago that MacLean, in the best of health and spirits, dropped into this office.

"I have an idea that can be developed into a great national affair in which the Hearst newspapers can help a great deal," said Alex. "Bicycle racing and riding are coming back everywhere. In New York they are now building special paths for bicycle riders."

"I have been considering a national race similar to one that is held in France. It would be from Coast to Coast with teams from all parts of the country competing as members of relay units. The race would have national sponsors with the backing of various Chamber of Commerce units. I would like to tie the race in with the Hearst newspapers on account of their wide appeal to people interested in athletics."

MacLean's eyes were bright as he talked, his voice as enthusiastic as it used to be when he would tell me of the ring ability of Matty Baldwin or Gilbert Gallant or about his experiences as manager of Jack Johnson and Sandy Ferguson.

I told Alex I thought his idea had merit, and that in another year with business better and peace in the world more certain the time might be right to go ahead with his plans.

"I don't think you are ever going to get old," I said.

"A man never becomes old while he remains active and keeps thinking," replied MacLean.

It is regrettable that pulmonary thrombosis following a tonsil operation could write the closing chapter in such a colorful life.

Baldwin and Gallant Alex's Favorites

MATTY BALDWIN and Gilbert Gallant were the favorites among the boxers Alex managed. He considered Baldwin, a lightweight, one of the greatest fighters of his inches that ever lived.

Matty was busy every second he was in the ring. Never a great puncher, he wore down his opponents by his steady, persistent attack.

Baldwin was exceptionally ring wise, and could make less experienced boxers look crude.

When K. O. Brown of New York, twice conqueror of Ad Wolgast, was at the peak of his career, Dan Morgan brought him to Boston to box Baldwin. Matty was too shifty and knew too much about the fine points of boxing for Brown and won easily.

Gilbert Gallant didn't possess as much ability as Baldwin, but he was much better than the average run of lightweights of his period.

It was MacLean who first took Jack Johnson to Australia in an effort to force Tommy Burns to meet him in a bout for the heavyweight championship of the world. MacLean had found Johnson working in a livery stable in Revere, and believed he could develop the giant Negro into a champion. Johnson's victory over Burns proved MacLean's wisdom.

Alex personally always considered that Sandy Ferguson was a better boxer than Johnson. Sandy, however, was unreliable both in and outside of the ring, and gave Alex his share of headaches.

Sharkey-Maloney Bout Top Promotion

MACLEAN ALWAYS said the Jack Sharkey-Jim Maloney bout at Braves Field in the Summer of 1925 was his greatest promotion. At the time Alex was acting as matchmaker for the Crosscup-Pishon Post of the American Legion. Alex had been in France during the war with the K. of C., and later in Germany as sports director of the Third Army of Occupation.

The Sharkey-Maloney bout, which was a local natural, was sold to the public at a $5 top, and the gate receipts hit $56,000. This is still Boston's high for a boxing show.

Sharkey and Maloney were each paid $7500, and the show netted $25,000 for Legion charities. Sharkey won on a foul. The ending of the bout created so much controversy that Sharkey and Maloney were re-matched for a Christmas Fund show. Sharkey won the return bout. Later when Maloney became a leading card in New York and Sharkey stopped Harry Wills and Mike McTigue there was a third bout at a New York ball park. MacLean picked Sharkey to win the New York bout which he did.

Character Pays Sports Dividends

ALEX WAS quiet and unassuming, and a tireless worker. His success was due to his courage, creative ideas and high character. His word was all that was necessary to bind agreements running into the thousands of dollars.

Alex took great pride in his family. Mrs. MacLean and her son, Alex Hugh, now 15, were usually in his company when he was away from his promotions.

The suddenness of Alex's death has been a great shock to his family and to his friends. May they get some consolation in the thought his memory will remain fresh in the minds of all who had the good fortune to know him, and that his good example will help make athletics better down through the years.

Morse Holds 'Ace' Lead

Hole-in-One Tourney In Third Day

George Morse still leads the hole-in-one golfers as the sixth annual Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser fall tourney at Franklin Park moves into its third day.

The Scarborough G. C. golfer landed one of his five shots just two feet, three inches away from the elusive cup on the opening day and the mark has yet to be bettered.

Honors in the women's division is held by Miss Miriam R. Garber of Roxbury, who was nine feet away.

This contest of skill and luck on the 120-yard special hole is on daily from 10 a. m. to twilight and is open to everybody.

A "duffer" may actually hit the shirt iron hole with much more accuracy than a "pro."

$185,000 GAMBLE NOW O.K.

Discount the fact that the Cubs are only a half game behind the Pirates. The important factor is that Pie Traynor's charges have lost two less games than the Windy City Club. . . . Right now, it appears as though young Wrigley's $185,000 gamble on Dixie Dean was not such a bad bet. . . . Just about the time that the early birds are reading this article, Ray Mueller, the Bees' catcher will be strolling up the aisle to wed Miss May Ellen Pollack, of Harrisburg, Pa. The Muelers will start their honeymoon tonight, traveling by boat to New York with the Bees. . . . Turdine in the dark horse of the Big Ten and Jim Crowley and his Fordham Rams better watch out. . . . The University of Southern California band is wearing West Point uniforms this fall. . . . Hans Lobert, the Phillies coach, was in rare humor yesterday. He even recited "The Night She Cried in My Beer." . . . Hank Greenberg, the Tiger slugger, is within two of Babe Ruth's all time home run record. . . . Detroit has five more games to play. So Hank has approximately 20 more times at bat. It looks bad for the Babe. Providing they'll give the big Bronx boy a chance to take his swings. . . . In the Canadian game, the Eagles didn't give Fella Gintoff the protection on passes they offered Ira Jivilekian. . . . The University of California has a 166-pound center named Dave Queen, who experts claim is the best pivot man on the Coast. . . . Major League clubs may vote to increase their rosters from 25 to 28 players. Owners and managers are of the opinion that the two extra men would offer an opportunity to keep two youngsters under the big tent for development. . . . With less than a season and a half in organized baseball, Tom Earley, the former Mission High School boy, broke into the big league yesterday by pitching the Bees to a 4 to 1 victory over the Phillies. He held Jimmy Wilson's boys, to four hits, displayed a live fast ball, fast breaking curve and almost perfect control. . . . Tom's reward will be a trip to the Bees' training camp next spring. . . . Jack Yonchoes, the B. C. tackle, may weigh 235 but he floats through the air, like the man on the flying trapeze, with the greatest of ease. He sailed right over a loose ball in the end zone during the Canadian game. . . . Jimmy Wilson says the Dixie Dean is the best money pitcher in baseball. "And he's tough on the golf course—I keep him all winter."

Snead Wins $5000; Earnings, $17,572

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (INS)—He's tall and lank, 26 years old, virtually inarticulate in the presence of crowds, and a colorless, almost shabby dresser.

He's placid as the mountain country whence he hails, but he hits a golf ball farther, perhaps, than any other player in the history of the game, and today he holds the all-time record for money-winnings in a single year.

He's Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who made off with the $5000 top prize of the $15,000 purse in the 108-hole Westchester open tournament at the Suburban Fenway Golf Club.

This gave him a total in earnings for the year of $17,572 and topped the previous record of $15,500 established nine years ago by Horton Smith.

Even the Hagens and the Sarazens never did as well as Snead strictly on competitive earnings, and now they are saying that he is headed straight toward recognition as the outstanding swinger of these times.

His aggregate 430 nosed out Billy Burke, of Cleveland, who led until the final round, by two strokes, the latter taking $2000 second money in a magnificent gesture that barely failed.

Paul Runyan, who recently squeaked Snead by 8 and 7 in the finals of the national professional championship at Shawnee, Pa., split the third money prize of $1600 with Byron Nelson, of Reading, Pa., their scores being 434.

Jug McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., pro, who was up with the leaders all the way, slipped to a 79 on the last round and wound up 10th.

He got only $350 for his pains.

Comparing Series Rivals

Yanks Have Edge In Outfield Play

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—In sizing up the outfielders that will clash in the first World Series game next Wednesday—whether the Yankees play the Pittsburgh Pirates or the Chicago Cubs—the most logical first move is to take Joe DiMaggio, who is receiving $25,000 for playing center field with the Yanks this season.

You might take Joe for about $200,000 cash, if owner Jake Ruppert happened to be mad at him. But you would be lucky to get him at that price, and either the Pirates or Cubs goes through the big series without having Joe bust up a couple of games they will be lucky, too. Joe, the leading slugger of the big series, has a batting average of .328 and 31 home runs to his credit, and gives the Yanks bleacher patrol an obvious edge over either National League trio in a short series.

A right-hand hitter with lots of "wrist" in his swing, DiMaggio will be a distinct threat every time he goes to the plate. So, to a slightly lesser degree, will be Tommy Henrich (.299), who plays right field for the Yanks and has poled 26 homers. George Selkirk (.253), who divides left-field duties with Myril Hoag (.251), has hit 10.

Over the season, the Pittsburgh outfield of Johnny Rizzo, Lloyd Waner and Paul Waner has been a sweet one to have around. Any baseball man would rather have it than the Cub combination of Augie Galan, Frank Demaree and Carl Reynolds. Yet the Pirate trio seldom knocks balls out of sight.

Rizzo, the nearest to a game wrecker, has hit 20 home runs and has an average of .297. Also, he has knocked across 104 runs, which is excellent. But Lloyd Waner, who heads the club in hitting with a mark of .311, and his brother Paul, with .283, are strictly spot hitters.

It is traditional that a rival manager once proclaimed in his best imitation of a radio announcer: "Lloyd Waner hit a terrific drive over the pitcher's head. It's rolling and rolling, folks—clear to the second baseman. Waner beat it out for a single."

This outfield, though, is the spearhead of the Pittsburgh offense. Lloyd is supposed to reach first. Paul is expected to advance him a base or two, and then its up to either Rizzo or Floyd Vaughan to bring him around. If that doesn't work, they wait an inning or two and try it again.

The Yankee system calls for Henrich to hit a homer and for DiMaggio to shake hands with him as he crosses the plate. Or for Gehrig to hit it and Selkirk do the greeting. Reynolds, the veteran center-fielder, leads the Chicago gardeners with a hitting average of .299, followed by Galan, .284, and Demaree, the clean-up slugger, with .270. Galan, however, twisted a knee in yesterday's game with the Pirates and may not be available if the Cubs win the pennant. Phil Cavaretta, a .240 hitter, is taking Galan's place.

There is little to choose between the three outfielders in fielding skill. They're all good.

Bees Retain Casey Stengel For '39 Season

By BILL GRIMES

"They're firing so many managers," declared Bob Quinn after the Bees had taken a doubleheader from the Phillies, "that I want to straighten out my situation with the baseball scribes."

"I've just been in conference with Oscar Horton and Casey Stengel and the latter has accepted our offer to manage the Bees again next season. 'Many of you gentlemen questioned my selection when I announced that Casey Stengel was my choice. But I now know that you are as strong for him as I am.'"

"I knew that he did not have the proper tools to cope with some of the other National League clubs. And moreover, I saw early in the year that the 1933 Bees were not up to the standard of last year's aggregation. For instance, Jim Turner and Lou Fette turned in a total of 40 victories."

"Up to the present, they have accounted for only 25. Picture where we'd be if Turner and Fette were to have won 40 games this season. That's the answer to Stengel as a manager. He is within four games, with five to play, of last year's mark."

"And bear in mind, Gene Moore was lost to the club early in the season and also that Al Lopez, Danny MacFayden, Milt Shoffner and Heine Mueller were all out of the line up from six weeks to two months."

After Bob Quinn made his announcement, "Oil Case" was called upon for a speech.

"During the off season Bob Quinn and I will go over the roster. No doubt we'll make some changes in the personnel of the club. The work of young Earley indicates that our pitching staff is improving. We believe that we have a great short stop in Eddie Miller and a promising rookie in Henry Majeski, a second sacker, up from Birmingham of the Southern Association. 'We are looking for a hard hitting outfielder and if we are successful in that quest, the Bees will have something to say about the 1933 National League pennant.'"

What the Stars Did

By the Associated Press

BOB SEEDS, Giants, and LUKE HAMLIN, Dodgers—Seeds got a triple and two singles in Giants' 5-3 victory in opener; Hamlin halted Giant rally with bases full to win nightcap, 5-1.

JIM TURNER and TOM EARLEY, Bees—Turner beat Phillies, 2-2 with three hits in opener and early halted Phils in nightcap, 4-1, with four hits.

DEEZY DEAN and BILL LEE, Cubs—Dean checked Pirates for 8 1/2 innings; Lee replaced him and fanned Todd for third out in ninth with tying run on base.

BUCKY WALTERS, Reds—Held Cardinals to six hits as Reds won, 3-1.

LEFTY GOMEZ and LOU GEHRIG, Yankees—Gomez halted Senators, 5-2, for 18th victory; Gehrig hit homer No. 29.

BOB FULLER, Indians—Stopped White Sox with five hits, fanned 10 as Indians won, 6-1.

BILL HARRIS, Red Sox—Held Athletics to four hits as mates pounded out 11-1 win.

MINNEAPOLIS—Ray Schwartz, 185, New York, threw Joe Savoldi, 216, Three Oaks, Mich., 36.58.

Greenberg Two Down to Ruth; Five to Go

DETROIT, Sept. 28 (INS)—Confident but determined not to be over anxious, slugging Hank Greenberg today turned his bat loose against St. Louis in hopes of slapping two more homers in the five remaining games on Detroit's schedule and thereby at least tie Babe Ruth's record of 49.

The Tigers' big first baseman already is three games ahead of Ruth's record-shattering pace.

His two homers in yesterday's seven-inning nightcap against the Browns enabled Hank to shatter his own record.

It marked the 11th time this season he has blasted two or more circuit clouts in one game.

Pros Reinstate Max Padow

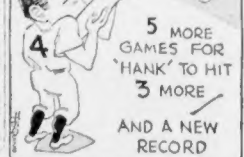

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 28 (AP)—Max Padow, former Ohio State University end who in 1936 was banned for five years from the national pro football league, has been reinstated because he's "up against it" and has been punished enough, Joe Carr, president of the national loop, said.

"There's no use taking a man's life just because he made a mistake," said Carr.

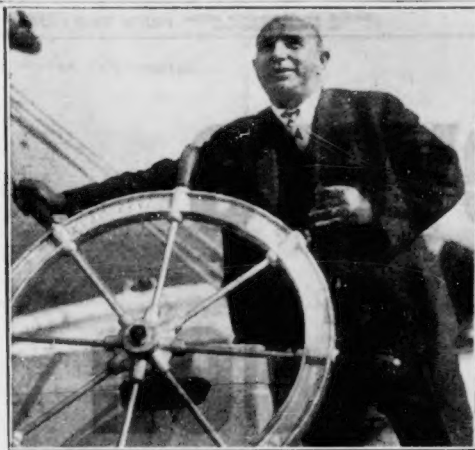

Padow in 1936 "jumped" a contract with the Philadelphia Eagles with two other players to compete with Cleveland in the old American League.

Thebaud Tunes for Bluenose

Anchor Aweigh
Captain Ben Pine tunes his Gertrude L. Thebaud for international race series with Bluenose which opens off Boston, Oct. 9. Thebaud defeated Bluenose in 1930, but Canadian schooner reversed tables in 1931.

Fishermen Open Series Oct. 9

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 28 (AP)—The schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud Captain Ben Pine's challenger for the international fishermen's trophy, today was taken for her first trial spin since fitting out for her approaching sailing duel with the Canadian champion, Captain Angus Walter's Bluenose, scheduled to open off Boston Oct. 9.

In gleaming white canvas, representing approximately 700,000 hand stitches, the stately pride of the American fishing fleet moved out the harbor while the waterfroin was lined with thousands who probably never again will see another fully rigged Gloucester fishing schooner.

WILL BE LAST BID
Captain Pine has announced that win, lose or draw, this will be his last bid for the trophy, and engines now virtually have stripped the fishing fleet of its white wings.

To cost $35,000 to remodel the Thebaud for this rivalry, the Gloucester schooner was built in 1930, but the result was reversed when they met the next year off Halifax, N. S. That was their last engagement.

Word was received today that Captain Walters intended to sail from Lunenburg, N. S., Bluenose's home port, tomorrow, and, with favorable conditions, she should arrive here before the end of the week.

Grimes Scouting Yanks for Pirates

Red Grange
The latest in Mickey Cochrane is through with baseball—but don't bet the house and lot or it, if the Red Sox make that proposition interesting enough...

Red Grange, in case you're interested, doesn't worry about the wolf busting in the door these days... What with paying work as coach of the Chicago Bears, as a writer, sports broadcaster and salesman—wonder what he does with his days off.

Brookline Faces Athletic Cut

High school athletics in Brookline will be curtailed unless the school committee finds some way to get more funds at a meeting tonight.

A special town meeting turned down the petition of the school committee for a $6500 school loan. It was given $1734 instead. Members of the committee said this amount would mean that everything but football must be dropped.

Red Sox to Fly From New York

Following the example of the St. Louis Cardinals, who last week flew part of their squad from Boston to New York, the entire Boston Red Sox team will fly from New York to Boston tonight. The team is scheduled to leave New York on two American Airlines Flagships at 8:15 p. m. and will arrive at East Boston airport at 9:35 p. m.

This is the first time an entire baseball squad has been transported by airplane and it is possible that the experience of the Cardinals and the Sox, who made their air trips because of crippled surface transportation, may open the way for west coast participation in big league baseball. By air the coast is only an overnight sleeper jump from any of the big league cities in the East.

Goodbye

Kisses of fathers and children, as above, were common yesterday in Czechoslovakia as call to arms was answered. At right, troops march into Prague station carrying tots and escorted by wives. These photos were flown to London and radioed here.
